

ANDANTINO

Dm

shti-ler, shti-ler, lo - mir shvay-gn, Kvo-rim vah-sn do.
 Gui-et, gui-et, let's be si-lent, Dead are grow-ing here.

Em

S'ho-bn zey far-flantst di so-nim gri-nen zey tsum blo.
 They were plant-ed by the ty-rant See their bloom ap-pear.

Dm

S'fi-rn ve-gn tsu po-nar tsu, S'firt keyn veg tsu-rik,
 All the roads lead to Po-nar now, There are no roads back,

Gmb

Iz der ta-te vu far-shvun-dn Un mit im dos glik.
 And our fa-ther too has van-ished, And with him our luck.

Dm

shti-ler, kind mayns, veyn nit, oy-tser, s'heft nit keyn ge-veyn,
 Still, my child, don't cry, my jew-el, Tears no help com-mands,

Bb

UN-dzer um-glik ve-in so-nim Say-vi nit far-shteyn.
 Our pain cal-lous peo-ple ne-ver un-der-stand.

A

S'ho-bn bre-ges oykh di ya-men, S'ho-bn tfi-ses
 Seas and oce-ans have their or-der, Pri-son al-so

A7

oy-khet tsa-men, Nor tsu UN-dzer payn keyn bi-sl has its bor-der, But to our plight There is no

Dm

shayn, _____ keyn bi-sl shayn.
 light, _____ There is no light.

A song of the Vilno ghetto. An eleven-year old boy Alex Wolkoviski wrote this prize-winning melody in a ghetto contest. Shmerke Kaczerginski (see note about author in Friling), then set words to the tune. Wolkoviski, presently called Tamir, is a composer in Israel.